

XCENTRIC, LLC. Welcomes CPA-Renowned Barton and Conger

ALPHARETTA, GA March 12, 2007– Xcentric, LLC recently hired two key players in the accounting industry: Bill Barton and Jason Conger. Barton and Conger’s CPA-specific technical expertise will greatly enhance the future of Xcentric, whose solutions are designed specifically for accounting and professional services organizations.

Barton brings 12 years of computer networking experience to Xcentric, including 7 years working directly in the accounting niche. He currently holds several industry certifications and is recognized as a progressive technology thinker, strategist, and solutions advisor, throughout the accounting industry. In addition to his extensive technology background, Barton possesses exceptional leadership qualities and excels in technology process improvement strategies.

“To have found a place that shares my passion for serving accounting firms, coupled with a progressive technology mindset and a strong faith-basis makes me feel right at home,” notes Barton. “I am excited about Xcentric’s future and I am even more excited to be part of it!”

Mike Walter, Manager of Technical Services at Xcentric, adds, “We are very excited to have Bill onboard as he comes with some very valuable technical experience within the accounting industry.”

Prior to joining Xcentric Conger worked at Citrix as a Presentation Server Architect assisting them in the design and implementation of their products. He has designed and built both large and small Citrix environments ranging from a few users to thousands of users. As the new Hosted Services Consultant, Conger will focus on Xcentric’s Hosted Services from both a tactical and strategic viewpoint.

“Xcentric has a unique customer-centric business attitude and is always looking for better ways to leverage technology to help its clients achieve excellence” explains Conger. “I am excited to be a part of this vision.”

Chris James, CTO, states, “We are thrilled about the immediate impact Jason will have. His enterprise class experience is a perfect fit with our Hosted Services offerings.”
